

You're in pluck

SOLIHULL Symphony Orchestra's oldest and youngest members are appealing for more violinists to join them.

George Newns, aged 92 has been with the orchestra since its foundation while 15-year-old Daniel Hurst a pupil at Solihull School became a member more recently.

Music director Martin Leigh, said: "Neither George nor Daniel are planning to leave in the near future, but the orchestra would very much welcome more string players. If you played the violin in the past, why not try it again this New Year?"

Rehearsals take place on Tuesday evenings in central Solihull in preparation for the next concert on Saturday March 1 at Shirley Methodist Church.

The programme will include Dvorak's 8th Symphony and Tchaikovsky's Variations on a Rococo Theme. For more information call 0121 745 5548 or visit www.solihull-symphony.org.uk.

● Music director Martin Leigh, with Daniel Hurst and George Newns