

Out of this world

THE Solihull Symphony Orchestra is celebrating after winning an Awards for All Lottery Grant.

The cash will support their forthcoming concert in Solihull School's Bushell Hall, which takes place on March 24.

It will feature Holst's The Planets, performed in partnership with a community choir and musicians from local schools.

Musical director of the orchestra, Martin Leigh, said: "The Planets is an ambitious work for an amateur orchestra to attempt, but we are encouraged by the opportunities for greater participation that the lottery award has provided.

"We particularly welcome the opportunity to work with local schools and community groups to perform great music in Solihull."

The concert, which also features works by Nielsen and Haydn starts at 19.30. Tickets are available from 0121 704 6962.

Planets' grant is out of this world

THE players of Solihull Symphony Orchestra are celebrating this week after winning an Awards for All Lottery grant to support their forthcoming concert in Solihull School's Bushell Hall.

The concert, which features a large scale performance of Holst's The Planets will involve the participation of a choir drawn from the local community, together with several additional players from local schools.

Musical director of the orchestra Martin Leigh said: "The Planets is an ambitious work for an amateur orchestra to attempt, but we are encouraged by the opportunities for greater participation that the Lottery award has provided. We particularly welcome the opportunity to work with local schools and community groups to perform great music in Solihull."

The concert, which also features works by Nielsen and Haydn is on Saturday, March 24 at 7.30pm.

Tickets are available from the orchestra's website, www.solihull-symphony.org.uk, or from the Solihull Box Office on 0121 704 6962.

● Players relax in rehearsal

A Holst of musical treats for classical lovers

THE players of Solihull Symphony Orchestra are celebrating after winning an Awards for All Lottery Grant to support their concert in Solihull School's Bushell Hall.

The concert, which features a large scale performance of Holst's The Planets, will involve the participation of a choir drawn from the local community, together with several additional players from local schools.

Musical director of the orchestra Martin Leigh said: "The Planets is an ambitious work for an amateur orchestra to attempt, but we are encouraged by the opportunities for greater participation that the Lottery award has provided.

"We particularly welcome the opportunity to work with local schools and community groups to perform great music in Solihull."

The concert, which also features works by Nielsen and Haydn, is on Saturday, March 24 at 7.30pm. Tickets are available on www.solihull-symphony.org.uk, or from the Solihull box office on 0121 704 6962.